Race, Romanticism, and the Atlantic Paul Youngquist, 2016-05-23 In highlighting the crucial contributions of diasporic people to British cultural production this important collection defamiliarizes prevailing descriptions of Romanticism as the expression of a national character or culture The contributors approach the period from the perspective of the Atlantic maritime economy making a strong case for viewing British Romanticism as the effect of myriad economic and cultural exchanges occurring throughout a circum Atlantic world driven by an insatiable hunger for sugar and slaves Typically taken for granted the material contributions of slaves sailors and servants shaped Romanticism both in spite of and because of the severe conditions they experienced throughout the Atlantic world The essays range from Sierra Leone to Jamaica to Nova Scotia to the metropole examining not only the desperate circumstances of diasporic peoples but also the extraordinary force of their creativity and resistance Of particular importance is the emergence of race as a category of identity class and containment Race Romanticism and the Atlantic explores that process both economically and theoretically showing how race ensures the persistence of servitude after abolition At the same time the collection never loses sight of the extraordinary contributions diasporic peoples made to British culture during the Romantic era

Jane Austen in the Context of Abolition G. White, 2005-11-29 This wide ranging and convincingly argued study looks at the issues of and attitudes towards slavery in Jane Austen's later novels and culture and argues against Edward Said's critique of Jane Austen as a supporter of colonialism and slavery White suggests that Austen is both concerned and engaged with the issue and that novels such as Mansfield Park Emma and Persuasion not only presuppose the British outlawing of the transatlantic slave trade but also undermine the status quo of chattel slavery slavery's most extreme form The Edinburgh Companion to the Brontes and the Arts Amber K. Regis, Deborah Wynne, 2024-12-31 The Bronte family produced and consumed art across a range of media and genres Haworth Parsonage and the local region proved a crucible of inspiration not only for Charlotte Branwell Emily and Anne but also for their parents Here were fostered the creative ambitions of four of the nineteenth century's most provocative novelists poets and visual artists In turn the Brontes now sustain heritage tourism and creative industries that adapt and disseminate their lives and work their likenesses and words across the globe in books on a plethora of screens film TV computer and phone in discarnate audio radio and podcasts and embodied on stage The essays collected here offer the first panoramic and sustained examination of the Brontes' lives work and legacies in relation to the visual musical plastic and performing arts tracing their influences and transformations across the lives and cultural afterlives of this extraordinary literary family

Jane Austen & Charles Darwin Peter W. Graham, 2016-05-06 Are Jane Austen and Charles Darwin the two great English empiricists of the nineteenth century Peter W. Graham poses this question as he brings these two icons of nineteenth century British culture into intellectual conversation in his provocative new book Graham shows that while the one is generally termed a naturalist Darwin's preferred term for himself and the other a novelist these characterizations are at least partially interchangeable as each author possessed skills that would serve well in either arena Both Austen and Darwin are naturalists who look with a sharp cold eye at the concrete particulars of the world around them Both are in certain senses novelists who weave densely particularized and convincingly grounded narratives that convey their personal observations and perceptions to wide readerships When taken seriously the words and works of Austen and Darwin encourage their readers to look closely at the social and natural worlds around them and form opinions based on individual judgment rather than on transmitted opinion Graham's four interlocked essays begin by situating Austen and Darwin in the English empirical tradition and focusing on the uncanny similarities in the two writers' respective circumstances and preoccupations Both Austen and Darwin were fascinated by sibling relations Both were acute observers and analysts of courtship rituals Both understood constant change as the way of the world whether the microcosm under consideration is geological biological social or literary Both grasped the importance of scale in making observations Both discerned the connection between minute particular causes and vast general effects Employing the trenchant analytical talents associated with his subjects and informed by a wealth of historical and biographical detail and the best of recent work by historians of science Graham has given us a new entree into Austen's and Darwin's writings

Reforming Trollope Deborah Denenholz Morse, 2016-04-01 Trollope the reformer and the reformation of Trollope scholarship in relation to gender race and genre are the intertwined subjects of eminent Trollopian Deborah Denenholz Morse's radical rethinking of Anthony Trollope Beginning with a history of Trollope's critical reception Morse traces the ways in which Trollope's responses to the political and social upheavals of the 1860s and 1870s are reflected in his novels She argues that as Trollope's ideas about gender and race evolved over those two crucial decades his politics became more liberal The first section of the book analyzes these changes in terms of genre As Morse shows the novelist subverts and modernizes the quintessential English genre of the pastoral in the wake of Darwin in the early 1860s novel The Small House at Allington Following the Second Reform Act he reimagines the marriage plot along new class lines in the early 1870s in Lady Anna The second section focuses upon gender In the wake of the Second Reform Bill and the agitations for women's rights in the 1860s and 1870s Trollope reveals the tragedy of primogeniture and male privilege in Harry Hotspur of Humblethwaite and the viciousness of the marriage market in Ayala's Angel The final section of Reforming

Trollope centers upon race Trollope's response to the Jamaica Rebellion and the ensuing Governor Eyre Controversy in England is revealed in the tragic marriage of a quintessential English gentleman to a dark beauty from the Empire's dominions The American Civil War and its aftermath led to Trollope's insistence that English identity include the history of English complicity in the black Atlantic slave trade and American slavery a history Trollope encodes in the creole discourses of the late novel Dr Wortle's School Reforming Trollope is a transformative examination of an author too long identified as the epitome of the complacent English gentleman Literature and Citizenship in the Age of Revolution Mitchell Gauvin, 2024-09-11 Citizenship is at the forefront of popular imagination as political movements and state governments around the world traffic in anti immigrant rhetoric and call for increased policing of borders Literature and Citizenship in the Age of Revolution A Wish for Air and Liberty looks back to a critical historical juncture in the development of citizenship to uncover how literature contoured and contested imaginings of citizenship While territory and the nation state often frame our understanding of citizenship this book focuses on how non citizens foreigners and strangers have long been central to citizenship's coherence Rather than rootedness literary texts exposed the circulations of persons ideas and affections at the heart of citizenship This book brings together an unlikely combination of writers Olaudah Equiano Jane Austen Mary Shelley and Herman Melville to show how literature in the Age of Revolution exposed contradictions in notions of liberty and slavery that impacted how citizenship was conceived and practiced The Work of Whiteness Helen Morgan, 2021-05-30 Whiteness is a politically constructed category which needs to be understood and dismantled because the system of racism so embedded within our society harms us all It has profound implications for human psychology an understanding of which is essential for supporting the movement for change This book explores these implications from a psychoanalytic and Jungian analytic perspective The fragility of whiteness the colour blind approach and the silencing process of disavowal as they develop in the childhood of white liberal families are considered as means of maintaining white privilege and racism A critique of the colonial roots of psychoanalytic theories of Freud and Jung leads to questioning the de linking of the individual from society in modern day analytic thinking The concept of the cultural complex is suggested as a useful means of connecting the individual and the social Examples from the author's clinical practice as well as from public life are used to illustrate the argument Relatively few black people join the psychoanalytic profession and those who do describe training and membership as a difficult and painful process How racism operates in clinical work supervision and our institutions is explored and whilst it can seem an intractable problem proposals are given for ways forward This book will be of great importance to psychoanalysts psychotherapists social workers and all those with an interest in the role of white privilege on mental health Transatlantic Engagements with the British Eighteenth Century Pamela J. Albert, 2017-07-12 Transatlantic Engagements with the British Eighteenth Century revisits eighteenth century cultural artifacts through the lens of creative works produced by contemporary writers Beryl Gilroy Guyana Derek Walcott St Lucia Wole Soyinka Nigeria and David

Dabydeen Guyana While early studies of post colonization literature focused on how revisions of historical works write back to the British empire this study argues that trans historical cross cultural dialogues also reveal the global complexity of eighteenth century cultural forms i e the periodical essay travel narrative pantomime satirical engraving and slave narrative By transforming the generic form of their eighteenth century sources the African and Caribbean writers in this study strategically call attention to the modes of storytelling utilized by eighteenth century writers Richard Steele Daniel Defoe Jonathan Swift William Hogarth Isaac Bickerstaff and Ignatius Sancho and subsequently expose how the encounters exchanges and acts of resistance taking place around the world influenced aesthetic experimentation in England Transatlantic Engagements with the British Eighteenth Century is thus a reconsideration of eighteenth century literature art and drama However because these engagements with British literature art and drama concurrently reflect twentieth century encounters with neocolonial oppression political violence and racism this study also proposes that engagements with the British eighteenth century double as inquiries into whether the modern world has progressed since the eighteenth century
