Then They Started Shooting Growing Up In Wartime Bosnia:

Then They Started Shooting Lynne Jones, 2004 You are nine years old Your best friend's father is arrested half your classmates disappear from school and someone burns down the house across the road You think your neighbors were planning to kill your family You are eight years old and imprisoned in your home by your father's old friends You are ten years old and must climb a mountain at night to escape the soldiers trying to shoot you What happens to children who grow up with war How do they live with the daily reality of danger hunger and loss and how does it shape the adults they become In Then They Started Shooting child psychiatrist Lynne Jones draws the reader into the compelling stories of Serbian and Muslim children who came of age during the Bosnian wars of the 1990s These children endured hardship loss family disruption and constant uncertainty and yet in a blow to psychiatric orthodoxy few showed lasting signs of trauma Thoughts of their personal futures filled their minds not memories of war And yet Jones suggests in a chilling conclusion the war affected them deeply Officially citizens of the same country the two communities live separate wary lives The Muslims hope for reconciliation but cannot believe in it while so many cannot go home and war criminals are still at large The Serbs resent the outside world NATO and fear the return of their Muslim neighbors Cynical about politics all of them mistrust their elected leaders War may end but the persistence of corruption and injustice keep wounds from healing

Bosnia Remade Gerard Toal, Carl T. Dahlman, 2011-02-16 Bosnia Remade is an authoritative account of ethnic cleansing and its partial undoing from the onset of the 1990s Bosnian wars up through the present Gerard Toal and Carl Dahlman combine a bird's eye view of the entire war from onset to aftermath with a micro level account of three towns that underwent ethnic cleansing and later the return of refugees There have been two major attempts to remake the ethnic geography of Bosnia since 1991 In the first instance ascendant ethno nationalist forces tried to eradicate the mixed ethnic geographies of Bosnia's towns villages and communities These forces devastated tens of thousands of homes and lives but they failed to destroy Bosnia Herzegovina as a polity In the second attempt which followed the war the international community in league with Bosnian officials endeavored to reverse the demographic and other consequences of this ethnic cleansing While progress has been uneven this latter effort has transformed the ethnic demography of Bosnia and moved the nation beyond its recent segregationist past By showing how ethnic cleansing was challenged Bosnia Remade offers more than just a comprehensive narrative of Europe's worst political crisis of the past two decades It also offers lessons for addressing an enduring global problem

Migration and Divided Societies Chris Gilligan, Susan Ball, 2016-04-08 The study of divided societies has focused historically on either ethnic divides in colonial or post colonial societies or on developed Western democracies which have ethnic power sharing Government structures The study of divided societies emerged historically at a moment when there was a growing interest in the study of immigration and inter ethnic relations in developed industrial nations These two sets of literature on divided societies and on immigration and inter ethnic relations have developed largely in isolation from each other Both sets of literature have also tended to focus on inter ethnic relations and have paid much less attention to migration This edited collection sets out to fill this gap in the literature through examining migration and ethnic division The case studies examined include developed industrial nations Canada and Norway a post colonial country Kenya and three cases which feature regularly in the divided societies literature Bosnia Northern Ireland and Israel Taken together these case studies suggest ways in which migration intersects with and complicates ethnic divides in divided societies This book was published as a special issue of Ethnopolitics

Localising Memory in Transitional Justice Mina Rauschenbach, Julia Viebach, Stephan Parmentier, 2022-05-30 This collection adds to the critical transitional justice scholarship that calls for transitional justice from below and that makes visible the complex and oftentimes troubled entanglements between justice endeavours locality and memory making Broadening this perspective it explores informal memory practices across various contexts with a focus on their individual and collective dynamics and their intersections reaching also beyond a conceptualisation of memory as mere symbolic reparation and politics of memory It seeks to highlight the hidden unwritten and multifaceted in today s memory boom by focusing on the memorialisation practices of communities activists families and survivors Organising its analytical focal point around the localisation of memory it offers valuable and new insights on how and under what conditions localised memory practices may contribute to recognition and social transformation as well as how they may at best be inclusive or exclusive of dynamic and diverse memories Drawing on inter and multi disciplinary approaches this book brings an in depth and nuanced understanding of local memory practices and the dynamics attached to these in transitional justice contexts It will be of much interest to students and scholars of memory and genocide studies peace and conflict studies transitional justice sociology and anthropology Everyday Life in the Balkans David W. Montgomery, 2018-11-26

Everyday Life in the Balkans gathers the work of leading scholars across disciplines to provide a broad overview of the countries of Albania Bosnia and Herzegovina Bulgaria Croatia Greece Kosovo Macedonia Romania Serbia and Turkey This region has long been characterized as a place of instability and political turmoil from World War I through the Yugoslav Wars and even today as debate continues over issues such as the influx of refugees or the expansion of the European Union However the work gathered here moves beyond the images of war and post socialist stagnation which dominate Western media coverage of the region to instead focus on the lived experiences of the people in these countries Contributors consider a wide range of issues including family dynamics gay rights war memory religion cinema fashion and politics Using clear language and engaging examples Everyday Life in the Balkans provides the background context necessary for an enlightened conversation about the policies economics and culture of the region Places of Pain Hariz Halilovich, 2013-02-01 For displaced persons memory and identity is performed re constructed and re negotiated daily Forced displacement radically reshapes identity with results ranging from successful hybridization to feelings of permanent misplacement This compelling and intimate description of places of pain and the longing that were lost during the 1992-95 war in Bosnia and Herzegovina as well as of survivors places of resettlement in Australia Europe and North America serves as a powerful illustration of the complex interplay between place memory and identity It is even more the case when those places have been vandalized divided up brutalized and scarred However as the author shows these places of humiliation and suffering are also places of desire with displaced survivors emulating their former homes in the far corners of the globe where they have resettled

How Generations Remember Monika Palmberger, 2016-12-07 This book is open access under a CC BY 4.0 license This book provides a profound insight into post war Mostar and the memories of three generations of this Bosnian Herzegovinian city Drawing on several years of ethnographic fieldwork it offers a vivid account of how personal and collective memories are utterly intertwined and how memories across the generations are reimagined and rewritten following great socio political change Focusing on both Bosniak dominated East Mostar and Croat dominated West Mostar it demonstrates that even in this ethno nationally divided city with its two divergent national historiographies generation specific experiences are crucial in how people ascribe meaning to past events It argues that the dramatic and often brutal transformations that Bosnia and

Herzegovina has witnessed have led to alterations in memory politics not to mention disparities in the life situations faced by the different generations in present day post war Mostar This in turn has created variations in memories along generational lines which affect how individuals narrate and position themselves in relation to the country's history This detailed and engaging work will appeal to students and scholars of anthropology sociology political science history and oral history particularly those with an interest in memory post socialist Europe and conflict studies Shards Ismet Prcic, 2011-10-04 A New York Times Notable Book Brilliant With verbal glee Prcic serves up a darkly comic vision of the terrors and misunderstandings of immigration Shelf Awareness Ismet Prcic's brilliant provocative and energetic debut novel is about a young Bosnian also named Ismet Prcic who has fled his war torn homeland and is now struggling to reconcile his past with his present life in California He is advised that in order to make peace with the corrosive guilt he harbors over leaving his family behind he must write everything The result is a great rattlebag of memories confessions and fictions sweetly humorous recollections of Ismet's childhood in Tuzla appear alongside anguished letters to his mother about the challenges of life in this new world As Ismet's foothold in the present falls away his writings are further complicated by stories from the point of view of another young man real or imagined named Mustafa who joined a troop of elite soldiers and stayed in Bosnia to fight When Mustafa's story begins to overshadow Ismet's new world identity the reader is charged with piecing together the fragments of a life that has become eerily unrecognizable even to the one living it Shards is a thrilling read a harrowing war story a stunningly inventive coming of age and a heartbreaking saga of a splintered family Fierce funny and real it also says much about war exile guilt and fear Chicago Sun Times Favorite Books of 2011 Boys and Girls in No Man's Land Susan Fisher, 2011-04-09 Boys and Girls in No Man's Land examines how the First World War entered the lives and imaginations of Canadian children Drawing on educational materials textbooks adventure tales plays and Sunday school papers this study explores the role of children in the nation's war effort Susan R Fisher also considers how the representation of the war has changed in Canadian children's literature During the war the conflict was invariably presented as noble and thrilling but recent Canadian children's books paint a very different picture What once was regarded a morally uplifting struggle rich in lessons of service and sacrifice is now presented as pointless slaughter This shift in tone and content reveals profound changes in Canadian attitudes not only towards the First World War but also towards patriotism duty and the shaping of the moral citizen Fixing the World Cyril Belshaw, 2010 In this challenging book Cyril Belshaw uses anthropological themes not only to identify the connections between global and personal issues but to set forth a programme of solutions Professor Tom Moynihan writes His most empowering insight is his insistence on a holistic account of what has to be done to consider the smallest most intimate most personal detail along with the largest most systemic considerations he builds a vision of world governance that has deep roots in radical thinking Among the topics he links together are issues of youth maturity violence health and crime poverty corporate organization nationalism and fiscal structures world government
