The International Handbook of Consultation in Educational Settings Chryse Hatzichristou, Sylvia Rosenfield, 2017-03-16 The rapid changes in the composition of school age youth around the world have catalyzed a growing concern about how to address children's mental health and education. Grounded in this increasingly global perspective, The International Handbook of Consultation in Educational Settings is designed to provide a multicultural transnational approach to consultation theory, research, training, and practice in educational settings. With chapters written by geographically diverse and prominent scholars across the field of school psychology, this handbook captures the range of ways in which consultation services are trained, implemented, and researched internationally. Written for practitioners, researchers, faculty members, and graduate students in the fields of school psychology, school counseling, special education, and educational psychology, this volume is the first of its kind to provide a comprehensive look at consultation in learning environments across the world. The International Handbook of Consultation in Educational Settings offers various perspectives on models, implementation, training, and research on school consultation. After an introduction to the volume by the editors, contributors to Part II examine school-based consultation around the world to explore how consultation services are implemented in different countries. Part III addresses cross-cultural issues in consultation, particularly at a systems level. Part IV presents themes related to processes and issues in the implementation of consultation by focusing on approaches in various countries. The chapters in Part V focus on consultation training, offering insights into the development of students and professionals into effective consultants in cross-cultural and systemic contexts. Part VI describes how practitioners can contribute to the body of research on consultation through careful planning and implementation of their work. Finally, the editors summarize key concepts and findings in a concluding chapter.

School Consultation William P. Erchul, Brian K. Martens, 2005-12-08 This volume offers a systematic approach to school consultation that differs from those that have been published previously. The authors combine the most useful and/or empirically validated principles from mental health and behavioral consultation with practices shown to be effective in contemporary consultation research, i.e., behavior analysis, social influence, and implementation support. This second edition also includes expanded coverage on a wide range of topics.

Managing Change in Schools Colin Newton, Tony Tarrant, 2012-10-12 Written by two educational psychologists, this essential aid shows how change can be managed to increase job satisfaction and avoid unnecessary stress and conflict. It offers practical advice for schools with action plans, outlines the mechanics and processes in self-appraisal, analyses the key methods for promoting effective change, shows ways to monitor, review, and evaluate change, examines a number of strategies including consultation, negotiation, project development, and in-service training.

The role of evidence in developing effective educational inclusion Joseph Mintz, Brahm Norwich, 2023-12-13 There has been considerable interest internationally in how research can be effectively translated to have an impact on practice in schools. The application of evidence-informed approaches in the field of education is contested and debated. Such debates are intensified in relation to the issue of how best to include children with diverse learning needs in the classroom. The role of knowledge, science and evidence in how we both conceptualize and best support children with special educational needs and other forms of diversity in the classroom remains an open question in terms of both policy and practice. Although there is a considerable and growing body of literature on evidence-informed practice in education in general, there has been less attention paid to its implications for the domain of educational inclusion specifically. However, tensions between differing conceptualisations of difference and the role of categorisation present questions as yet not fully answered as to the ways in which evidence can and should articulate with practice in this specific domain. For example, issues of what is inclusion, the place of norms and values that define inclusion, how we conceptualize and think about difference, across culture, language and cognition are raised when we think about the application of evidence to practice in the area of educational inclusion.
