Learning and Instruction Richard E. Mayer, 2003 How do people learn How can instruction promote learning This new book by a noted scholar thoroughly and succinctly answers these two fundamental educational psychology questions The author focuses on the big ideas preferring that readers understand a few exemplary ideas deeply rather than numerous ideas superficially The book uses clear definitions concrete examples and a conversational writing style that easily engages readers by addressing them directly Coverage is organized around two sides of the educational coin learning in subject areas and instructional methods that foster meaningful learning and explaining what research says about the learning teaching process For professionals in the field of Education Psychology

Handbook of Individual Differences, Learning, and Instruction David H. Jonassen, Barbara Louise Hopkins Grabowski, 1993 Written for teachers trainers and instructional designers anyone who is responsible for designing or preparing instruction this book begins with one basic premise individual differences mediate learning at all levels and in all situations That is some learners find it easier or more difficult to learn some skills or to learn from certain forms of instruction because they vary in terms of aptitude cognitive styles personality or learning styles This volume describes most of the major differences in a readable and accessible way and demonstrates how to design various forms of instruction and predict the ease with which learners will acquire different skills Most books that discuss any learner differences focus on those that characterize special education populations whereas this book focuses on normal learners Designed as a handbook this volume is structured to provide easy and consistent access to information and answers and prescriptions and hypotheses When definitive answers are not possible because there is no research documentation the authors suggest theories designed to stimulate future research

Essentials of Learning for Instruction Robert Mills Gagné, Marcy Perkins Driscoll, 1988 This is a book about human learning intended to be useful to teachers and prospective teachers The contents of this book will provide a framework that can serve well in organizing thought and the accumulation of knowledge about teaching Learning is described in terms of the information processing model of learning and memory This model posits a number of internal processes that are subject to the influence of external events The book should find its greatest usefulness in undergraduate courses in educational psychology and as an adjunct to graduate offerings in this subject It might also be used as a supplementary text in courses in human learning instructional methods instructional design and educational technology as well for the continuing education of teachers
