concepts in complex systems theory and their possible applications in development practice He examines various development issues and institutions in the light of what he sees as the limitations of rigid linear thinking in an essentially fluid non linear world Little wonder he concludes that the results of half a century of development effort have been so disappointing

Unholy Trinity Richard Peet,2003-08 Our lives are all affected by three hugely powerful and well financed but undemocratic organizations the International Monetary Fund the World Bank and the World Trade Organization These institutions share a common ideology They aggressively promote corporate capitalism neoliberalism giving free rein to the interests of a small number of transnational corporations This book presents the history and fundamental ideas of this economic ideology Describing each member of the unholy trinity it shows how neoliberalism hijacked the IMF World Bank and WTO in relation to their global financial development and trade management roles

Writing Global Trade Governance Michael Strange,2013-08-15 Writing Global Trade Governance operationalises a key post structuralist methodology in order to expand understanding on the institution at the heart of the global political economy Despite the WTO s centrality and the growing popularity of methods utilizing discourse theory no other text has yet demonstrated how these two fields of learning can be productively combined The book seeks to move beyond existing literatures that assume the WTO to be a structure institution or normative framework in order to enquire into the discursive processes of identity formation that make the WTO both possible and contested The book criticises conventional approaches that treat critical civil society as distinct to the WTO arguing instead that it is only through including such social practices within the field of relations making the WTO that we can properly understand what makes the WTO work The book presents an empirical analysis of the discursive character of the present day WTO including its formation and operation and then moves on to evaluate how it is subject to change within a broader social context The final stage of the book seeks to discuss the impact of the findings on future research both on the WTO and other institutions. This work is a significant intervention in the literature on the World Trade Organization and the politics of global trade and social movements and will be of great interest to students and scholars of global governance discourse theory and international organizations.

The Global Food Economy Tony Weis, 2008-12-08 The Global Food Economy examines the human and ecological cost of what we eat. The current food economy is characterized by immense contradictions. Surplus food, mountains of bountiful supermarkets and rising levels of obesity stand in stark contrast to widespread hunger and malnutrition. Transnational companies dominate the market in food and benefit from subsidies whilst farmers in developing countries remain impoverished. Food miles mounting toxicity and the ecological footprint of livestock mean that the global food economy rests on increasingly shaky environmental foundations. This book looks at how such a system came about and how it is being enforced by the WTO. Ultimately Weis considers how we can find a way of building socially just, ecologically rational and humane food economies.

The World Trade Organization and Trade in Services Kern Alexander, Mads Tønnesson Andenæs, 2008 The World Trade Organisation plays the primary role in regulating international trade in goods, services and intellectual property. Traditionally international trade law and regulation has been analysed primarily from the trade in goods perspective. Services are becoming an important competence for the WTO. The institutional legal and regulatory influence of the General Agreement on Trade in Services (GATS) on domestic economic policymaking is attracting increasing attention in the academic and policymaking literature. The growing importance of services trade to the global economy makes the application of the GATS to trade in services an important concern of international economic policy. The GATS contains important innovations that build on the former GATT and existing WTO GATT trade regime for goods. This book fills a void in the academic and policymaking literature by examining how the GATS governs international trade in services and its growing impact on the regulatory practice of WTO member states. It offers a unique discussion of the major issues confronting WTO member states by analysing the GATS and related international trade issues from a variety of perspectives that include law, political economy, regulation and business. Moreover, the role of the WTO in promoting liberalised trade and economic development has come under serious strain because of the breakdown of the Doha

Development Round negotiations. The book analyses the issues in the Doha services debate with some suggested policy approaches that might help build a more durable GATS framework. The book is a welcomed addition to the WTO literature and will serve as a point of reference for academics, policymakers and practitioners.

The Limits of Capitalism Wim Dierckxsens, 2000 What is to be done? That is the issue. Political movements, social thinkers, economists and governments all over the world must now confront. Without trying to propose specific policies, the author puts forward a highly suggestive set of principles and ideas.
