The New York Giants Frank Graham, 2017-11-05 Excerpt from The New York Giants An Informal History This was New York in the elegant eighties and these were the Giants fashioned in elegance playing on the Polo Grounds then at 110 Street and Fifth Avenue It was the New York of the brownstone house and the gaslit streets of the top hat and the hansom cab of oysters and champagne and perfect cigars of Ada Rehan and Oscar Wilde and the young John L Sullivan It also was the New York of the Tenderloin and the Bowery of the slums and the sweat shops of goats grazing among shanties perched on the rocky terrain of Harlem The Giants however were the darlings of the brown stone set and drew the carriage trade They were owned by John B Day a wealthy manufacturer whose factory was on the lower East Side but who lived in a brownstone house wore a top hat and a frock coat carried a cane and rode in his own coach They were managed by James Mutrie who lived in a sedate hotel in the Twenties wore a top hat and frock coat carried a cane and rode in hansom cabs Their players were cut to their pattern so that gazing on their likenesses in fading photographs you might be tempted to think they had been chosen as much for their looks as for their ability as ball players
