significant profits and showcased the American way of life as a political social and cultural model for the war shattered Japanese population In Screening Enlightenment Hiroshi Kitamura shows how this expansive attempt at cultural globalization helped transform Japan into one of Hollywood's key markets He also demonstrates the prominent role American cinema played in the reeducation and reorientation of the Japanese on behalf of the U S government According to Kitamura Hollywood achieved widespread results by turning to the support of U S government and military authorities which offered privileged deals to American movies while rigorously controlling Japanese and other cinematic products The presentation of American ideas and values as an emblem of culture democracy and sophistication also allowed the U S film industry to expand However the studios efforts would not have been nearly as extensive without the Japanese intermediaries and consumers who interestingly served as the program's best publicists Drawing on a wide range of sources from studio memos and official documents of the occupation to publicity materials and Japanese fan magazines Kitamura shows how many Japanese supported Hollywood and became active agents of Americanization A truly interdisciplinary book that combines U S diplomatic and cultural history film and media studies and modern Japanese history Screening Enlightenment offers new insights into the origins of this unique political and cultural transpacific relationship An Evening's Entertainment Richard Koszarski,1994-05-04 On the age of silent movies The Web After Work for Dummies Jill H. Ellsworth,Matthew V. expansion has cannibalistically laid the seeds of its own destruction And James Dobson s recent efforts to link the pro life agenda to allegations of cannibalism in China testify still further to the currency and pervasiveness of this powerful trope By highlighting practices that preclude the many from becoming one these representations of cannibalism Berglund argues call into question the comforting national narrative of e pluribus unum The Publishers' Circular and the Publisher & Bookseller ,1937 Time Briton Hadden, Henry Robinson Luce, 1933 Catalogue Montgomery Ward, 1946
