Reinvention of Love Helen Humphreys, 2012-08-27 When Charles Sainte Beuve an ambitious French journalist meets Victor Hugo a young writer on the verge of fame he finds himself in a world of great passions a world where words can become swords But to his surprise he is more attracted to Victor's long suffering wife Adèle When the two lovers create a scandal in Paris Victor exacts his price for betrayal Set during the tumultuous reign of Napoleon III and sweeping from France to the Channel Islands to Halifax and back The Reinvention of Love draws a rich portrait of the old city where duels are fought in its parks and cholera ridden bodies float in the Seine Along its narrow crime filled streets noble families and artists Frédéric Chopin Georges Sand Alexandre Dumas mix with ordinary citizens who remain restless with ideas of revolution Towering over all is the enormous talent of Victor Hugo who is rapidly becoming the voice of France to the world

The Radicality of Love Srećko Horvat, 2016-05-27 What would happen if we could stroll through the revolutionary history of the 20th century and without any fear of the possible responses ask the main protagonists from Lenin to Che Guevara from Alexandra Kollontai to Ulrike Meinhof seemingly naïve questions about love Although all important political and social changes of the 20th century included heated debates on the role of love it seems that in the 21st century of new technologies of the self Grindr Tinder online dating etc we are faced with a hyperinflation of sex not love By going back to the sexual revolution of the October Revolution and its subsequent repression to Ches dilemma between love and revolutionary commitment and to the period of 68 from communes to terrorism and its commodification in late capitalism the Croatian philosopher Srećko Horvat gives a possible answer to the question of why it is that the most radical revolutionaries like Lenin or Che were scared of the radicality of love What is so radical about a seemingly conservative notion of love and why is it anything but conservative This short book is a modest contribution to the current upheavals around the world from Tahrir to Taksim from Occupy Wall Street to Hong Kong from Athens to Sarajevo in which the question of love is curiously surprisingly absent

Ideology and Desire in Renaissance Poetry Ronald Corthell, 1997 Each chapter explores the interrelationships of representation identification and desire while the book as a whole gradually shifts in emphasis from new historicist concerns with representation and the social realm toward psychoanalytic themes of identification desire and inwardness

The Reinvention of Love Anthony Low, 1993-11-11 In The Reinvention of Love Anthony Low argues that cultural economic and political change transformed the way poets from Sidney to Milton thought and wrote about love Examining the interface between social political and economic practices and individual psyches as reflected in literary texts Professor Low illuminates the connections between material circumstances perceptions and ideals Through detailed readings of the work of Sidney Donne Herbert Crashaw Carew and Milton he shows how from the late sixteenth century poets struggled to replace the older Petrarchan tradition with a form of love in harmony with a changing world and to reconcile human love and sacred devotion Donne fled the social world Carew made new accommodations with it Milton revised it For Milton sacred love cut off from communal norms verges on hatred while married love takes on the burden of assuaging loneliness in a threatening world

John Donne David Edwards, 2001-05-21 Donne is best known as a poet of love never describing physical beauty in detail but brilliantly able to recreate a man's experience of love's emotions and realities but he is much else besides He is a poet of the spiritual journey who in his power speaks to others in travail a great preacher who soars into word music and encapsulates complex theology in illuminating epigrams David Edwards ranges across all Donne's writings including the critically neglected sermons to produce a new and compelling portrait of this tortured and contradictory figure As the tree's sap doth seek the root below In winter in my winter now I go Where none but thee th Eternal root Of true Love I may know

Tradition in Renaissance Love Lyric is the first systematic and wide ranging investigation of the multifaceted use of the Song of Songs in Renaissance love lyric poetry with specific attention to Italian French and especially English poetic production At the same time this investigation is embedded into a narrative that comprising two initial chapters devoted to medieval poetry and to Francesco Petrarca represents an unprecedented attempt to trace the role of the Song of Songs in the rise and development of the European love lyric following its path or rather one of its paths from the medieval origins of this tradition to the end of the sixteenth century The picture of the general impact of the Song of Songs in the development of the European love lyric is combined with in depth analysis of key works by specific authors including Dante Alighieri Francesco Petrarca Torquato Tasso Marguerite de Navarre Anne de Marquets Cl ment Marot Richard Barnfield Edmund Spenser William Shakespeare John Donne Elizabeth Melville and Aemilia Lanyer promoting a contextualization of their significance within a new interpretative framework While the comparative standpoint characterizing this study fosters a deeper comprehension of the evolution of the European love lyric its multidisciplinary approach which considers the Song of Songs as the centre of a web of dynamics pertaining to the fields of literature philosophy theology and religious and cultural history contributes to the understanding of the thought and spirit of ages crucial to the shaping of European culture
