about their individual lives Kirkus Reviews as cultural commentator Stephen Marche examines contemporary male female relations with the help of his wife writer and editor Sarah Fulford One morning in New York City Stephen Marche then a new father and tenure track professor got the call his wife had been offered her dream job in Canada Their decision to prioritize her career over his and move to Toronto sheds new light on the gender roles in their marriage and in the world around them As Marche provocatively argues we are no longer engaged in a war of the sexes but rather stuck together in a labyrinth of contradictions And that these contradictions are keeping women from power and confounding male identity The Unmade Bed is a deeply researched deeply personal exploration into the moments in everyday life where women and men meet After all within offices and homes on the street online and in bed we constantly ask ourselves What are we expected to sacrifice Is it possible to be equal As he attempts to answer these questions Marche explores the issues that define our modern conversations on gender from mansplaining and sexual morality to parenthood and divisions of the domestic sphere In the process he discovers that true power remains shockingly elusive for women while the idea of masculinity struggles in a state of uncertainty The only way out of these mutual struggles is together With footnote commentary throughout the book from Marche s wife The Unmade Bed is a compelling The Globe and Mail Toronto uniquely balanced and honest approach to the revolution going on in our everyday lives a thought provoking work of social science that is sure to be a conversation starter
