Conceptualizing Politics Furio Cerutti, 2017-04-21 Politics is hugely complex Some try to reduce its complexity by examining it through an ideological worldview a one size fits all prescriptive formula or a quantitative examination of as many facts as possible Yet politics cannot be adequately handled as if it were made of cells and particles ideological views are oversimplifying and sometimes dangerous Politics is not simply a moral matter nor political philosophy a subdivision of moral philosophy This book is devised as a basic conceptual lexicon for all those who want to understand what politics is how it works and how it changes or fails to change Key concepts such as power conflict legitimacy and order are clearly defined and their interplay in the state interstate and global level explored Principles such as liberty equality justice and solidarity are discussed in the context of the political choices confronting us This compact and systematic introduction to the categories needed to grasp the fundamentals of politics will appeal to readers who want to gain a firmer grasp on the workings of politics as well as to scholars and students of philosophy political science and history

The Oxford Handbook of Political Philosophy David Estlund, 2012-05-21 Even though political philosophy has a long tradition it is much more than the study of old and great treatises Contemporary philosophers continue to press new arguments on old and timeless questions but also to propose departures and innovations The field changes over time and new work inevitably responds both to events in the world and to the directions of thought itself This volume includes 22 new pieces by leaders in the field on both perennial and emerging topics of keen interest to contemporary political philosophers In addition to longstanding issues such as Authority Equality and Freedom and Democracy there are articles on less classical topics such as Race Historical Injustice Deliberation Money and Politics Global Justice and Ideal and Non Ideal Theory All of the pieces combine clarity and accessibility with a top scholar's critical and original point of view The introductory essay briefly situates this snapshot of the state of the art in a broader view of developments in political philosophy in the last 40 years and looks forward to future developments Students and scholars alike will find the pieces to be valuable not only surveys but as provocations to think further about the questions puzzles and practical problems that animate recent work in political philosophy The issues will be of interest to many working in philosophy political science law economics and more

International Relations and the Problem of Time Andrew R. Hom, 2020-05-26 What is time and how does it influence our knowledge of international politics For decades International Relations IR paid little explicit attention to time Recently this began to change as a range of scholars took an interest in the temporal dimensions of politics Yet IR still has not fully addressed the issue of why time matters in international politics nor has it reflected on its own use of time how temporal ideas affect the way we work to understand political phenomena Moreover IR remains beholden to two seemingly contradictory visions of time the time of the clock and a longstanding tradition treating time as a problem to be solved International Relations and the Problem of Time develops a unique response to these interconnected puzzles It reconstructs IR's temporal imagination by developing an argument that all times from natural rhythms to individual temporal experience spring from social and practical timing activities or efforts to establish meaningful and useful relationships in complex and dynamic settings In IR's case across a surprisingly wide range of approaches scholars employ narrative timing techniques to make sense of confounding processes and events This innovative account of time provides a more systematic and rigorous explanation for time in international politics It also develops provocative insights about IR's own history its key methodological commitments supposedly timeless statistical methods historical institutions and the critical vanguard of time studies This book invites us to reimagine time and in so doing to significantly rethink the way we approach the analysis of international politics

Reimagining the State Davina Cooper, Nikita Dhawan, Janet Newman, 2019-07-30 This book examines what value if any the state has for the pursuit of progressive politics and how it might need to be reimagined and remade to deliver transformative change Is it possible to reimagine the state in ways that open up projects of political transformation This interdisciplinary collection provides alternative perspectives to the antistatism of much critical writing and contemporary political movement activism Contributors explore ways of reimagining the state that attend critically to the capitalist neoliberal gendered and racist conditions of contemporary polities yet seek to hold onto the state in the process Drawing on postcolonial poststructuralist feminist queer Marxist and anarchist thinking they consider how states might be reread and reclaimed for radical politics At the heart of this book is state plasticity the capacity of the state conceptually and materially to take different forms This plasticity is central to transformational thinking and practice and to the conditions and labour that allow it to take place But what can reimagining do and what difficulties does it confront This book will appeal to academics and research students concerned with critical and transformative approaches to state theory particularly in governance studies politics and political theory socio legal studies international relations geography gender sexuality cultural studies and anthropology Hegel and the Frankfurt School Paul Giladi, 2020-12-22 This collection of original essays discusses the relationship between Hegel and the Frankfurt School Critical Theory tradition The book's aim is to take stock of this fascinating complex and complicated relationship The volume is divided into five parts Part I focuses on dialectics and antagonisms Part II is concerned with ethical life and intersubjectivity Part III is devoted to the logico metaphysical discourse surrounding emancipation Part IV analyses social freedom in relation to emancipation Part V discusses classical and contemporary political philosophy in relation to Hegel and the Frankfurt School as well as radical democratic models and the outline and functions of economic institutions
